Marching Band

The Panther Band shows its pride by spelling out EUCALID

The Panther Band, under the direction of Arthur Sydow, started its season late in August with an on-campus band camp. Students met for 8 days of extensive playing and marching rehearsals. The first two days were spent developing the sound of the Panther Band as well as learning to march Panther Band style. Work was begun on the pre-game and half-time show for opening night.

For each show a band member received a show guide containing several pages of routines, formations, and choreographic directions. In addition, each band member learned new music for each show.

Each half-time performance took anywhere from 15 to 20 hours of rehearsal time to learn and lasted about 7½ minutes on the field.

The season was highlighted by the final home game show - "Script Euclid", led by this year's band president, Senior Dale Grubb.

This year, three shows were designed by Seniors Diane Andrews, Judy Brown, Judy Hasse, and Judy Krnc.

Junior Rob Hendershot acts as a trumpet stand.

Making The Spirit

It's easy to scream your brains out if your football team finished 10-0 or your basketball team is headed for the state finals. But what happens when your school's teams are average, as ours were this year? Then it takes a special kind of spirit to cheer on the team in front of half-empty stands. Perhaps this is the greatest attribute of this year's cheerleaders.

The Bonfire

Right: There she goes! This year's bonfire rally was almost scrapped because of conflicts with local air pollution laws.

The 1980-1981 Homecoming festivities began on Wednesday, October 8th, with a traditional parade and bonfire-pep rally and concluded with the Homecoming dance on Saturday night.

The Homecoming parade and bonfire were highlighted by the float and car decorating contests, won by the Football Trainers and C.O.E. class respectively. Attendance at both of these events was at an all-time high.

The announcement of the Homecoming Queen and her court came on Thursday at an all-school assembly. The winner was Kristin Yamane. Kristin and her attendants were presented to the crowd at halftime during Friday night's Homecoming game against Bedford, a game the Panthers won 24-0.

Homecoming concluded with the annual formal dance held in the E-room. This year's theme was Down on Main Street. The 175 couples who attended the dance were entertained by the sounds of Teaser.

Whatever

Whatever happened to Monopoly? And stick-ball in the street? And hanging out at the soda shop after school? Like most of the pastimes of our parents' generation, they are just memories now. High school students of the 1980's have developed their own games and sports.

For example, while a high school student in the 1950's might have been content to play baseball or football from morning to night, more individualistic and non-competitive forms of physical activity appeal to the student of the 1980's. Witness the growing popularity of jogging, skiing, judo, and karate.

Another difference between ourselves and our parents is apparent in the board games we play. While our parents might have been satisfied with Monopoly and Parchesi, many students of the 1980's are joining the growing ranks of fantasy and wargames players. These games, which have rule books sometimes running up to a hundred pages in length, challenge the imagination and appeal to the student who believes that a game should offer a greater high than just owning Boardwalk and Park Place.

Perhaps the most popular games of the 1980's, however, are the electronic ones. First appearing a few years ago, and ranging from Simon to Space Invaders, these electronic wonders can now be found in any shopping center, game room, or student's locker, and are certainly a fair cry from the primitive shoot the bear penny arcade games our parents used to play at Euclid Beach Park.

Above, right: Thank you, but I think I'd prefer to use my own razor. A martial arts demonstration held in the E-room stirred enough interest among students that a martial arts club was formed this year.

Harvey Appears At Euclid

And another thing! Never upstage me again!

This year's Fall Play was a comedy about a 6' 1½" rabbit named Harvey. The play was written in 1944 by Mary Chase, and after a long run on Broadway, it was made into a hit movie.

The main character, Elwood P. Dowd—played by John Eros—and his friend, Harvey, spend their time making friends and going to bars. However, Harvey is invisible to the rest of the world, causing most people to believe Dowd a mental case. His sister Veta Simmons, played by Tina DiBacco, tries to commit Dowd to Chumley's Rest Home, a mental institution, but the staff is confused and thinks Veta is the one who is sick. The comedy expands from this mix-up.

Aside from the cast, credit for the success of the play is due to several other people. Ron LaBondano designed the set. Allen Black was in charge of the sound and lighting, and Amy Reno was the head of the prop department. Sue Bukovac acted as Student Director. Thus, the success of the play was not due to the efforts of any one person: it was a team effort.

Joe Deoma finished up some last minute painting of the set.

Spirits Haunt The Halls

All those signs that plastered the hallways on Thursdays and Fridays didn't appear by magic. They were the efforts of the Spirits Club. The Spirits Club is an informal group of EHS students who spend each Wednesday night painting signs and posters to express their support for the school's various sports teams.

Right: Some Spirits Club members were even ready to use their fingers when there weren't enough paint brushes to go around.

Three heads are better than one.

Maybe it will look better if I use my tie.

Golden Girls Glow with Spirit

Euclid High School's 1980-81 Golden Girls had a very active and successful year. Aside from performing at school functions, they entertained at various community affairs throughout the year.

The majorettes practiced during the summer and daily during the fall for their performances at the halftime shows of the football games. The majorettes danced to such songs as Tusk—featuring Captain Jeannine Carlo's solo performance, Catch the Pepsi Spirit, and Knock on Wood. As an added touch, they used tambourines, lighted batons, hats, and canes in their various routines.

Left: Jeannine Carlo has practice this routine so many times that she could even do it with her eyes closed.

WATER POLO

WAI NAPOLO

The abilities to swallow water and to endure the pain of the eye are among the qualities of a good water polo player.

The beauties and the beasts among the swim set at Euclid High School are the members of the Wai Napolo Club and the Water Polo Team. Wai Napolo members, girls interested in synchronized swimming, develop and put on a swim show each year. (This year's show was held in the spring and will be covered in the Euclidian supplement.)

Although it certainly is a sport, water polo is classified as an activity at EHS; but whatever its designation, the Water Polo Team had a fine year, finishing 6-0 in district play. Its only losses all season were to Upper Arlington and Sycamore. The team finished a respectable third in the eight-team state tournament held at EHS in late October.

Charlie Booms can never make a decision unless he has his lucky toothpick.

Among its various service projects this year, Student Council members helped to collect canned goods, paper products, and cash donations from the student body to give to the needy families in Euclid at Thanksgiving time. A Christmas party was also held for the residents of the Euclid Villa Senior Citizens Apartment Complex.

The Student Council also did a good job organizing school activities this year. Homecoming, for example, was very successful. A great parade and an excellent bonfire were among its memorable moments. The Homecoming Dance drew a record crowd. The Student Council also sponsored the Winter Festival, the Battle of the Classes, and the annual Pool Tournament.

At the end of the year, Student Council members traveled to the junior highs to talk to ninth graders to interest them in joining Student Council next year when they enter EHS.

Although the success of the Student Council this year was the result of hard work by all its members, special mention should be made of seniors Jane Shunk and Jennifer Thomas for the time and effort they contributed.

Service

Among the unsung heroes of Euclid High School are the members of the Sophomore and Junior Classes, groups of spirited class members who meet to plan activities and money-making projects for their respective classes. The only compensation they receive for their efforts is the satisfaction of knowing that they helped make EHS a more spirited, exciting school for their fellow class members.

The National Honor Society is a national organization meant to recognize a school's outstanding junior and senior students. At EHS, National Honor Society members are selected on the basis of academic standing and involvement in school activities.

The Key Club is a youth organization which attempts to serve its school and community. In the past year, the Key Club has donated over $1000 to charitable causes. Besides financial assistance, the club performs purely service-oriented activities such as holiday coffee stops, leaf raking, and Christmas caroling for the elderly. The club also holds socials frequently and has entertainment at each meeting. The Key Club is one of the largest clubs at EHS, with well over forty members in attendance at its weekly meetings.

ASSEMBLIES

School assemblies can serve several purposes: to build school spirit, to give information, or to provide entertainment. While assemblies can't please everyone, the ones we had this year did fulfill one of these purposes.

The school year got off to its usual start with a rowdy rally for the St. Joe's game: a fiery speech by Coach Seymour, lots of yelling and screaming by the students, a surprise visit by Dr. Husarik and Darth Vader—and another shellacking that night from the St. Joe's football team. However, on a scale of 1 to 10, the St. Joe's assembly would rate a 9 on sheer intensity of school spirit.

The next assembly, a one-man comic show by Mark Schoenbrach, was the best one of the year. Although its purpose was instructive—get involved in school and its activities—the speaker's comic presentation of slices of high school life kept most students concentrating on him rather than their watches.

The homecoming assembly was a typical Student Council extravaganza with the introduction of candidates to mood music as each paraded down white runners through the gym. It was exciting if your girlfriend was up for queen, but if you were unlucky enough to be in one of the homerooms sitting up in the rafters of the gym, the combination of distance and a poor sound system made it next to impossible to connect names and faces.

The Bore-of-the-Year award went to the energy assembly. Although the intention was good—an informational presentation on the energy crisis—the assembly was a complete bust. What went wrong? The subject? The speaker's approach? The after-effects of that day's cafeteria food? It's hard to tell, but it proves one thing about high school assemblies: sometimes the magic works and sometimes it doesn't.

The Marching Band/Majorette assembly was highly entertaining for those students who just go to football games so they can watch the half-time shows or those who rate George Gershwin's music right up there with Bruce Springsteen's. For the other 99% of the student body, listening to the Marching band perform at least cut their classes down by five minutes each day.

The Powder Puff assembly saw about one half of the senior class milling about the gym floor as girls of the Blue and Gold teams, coaches, officials for the game, and cheerleaders parodied the excitement of a regular football game. What it lacked in organization, it made up for in enthusiasm.

The Varsity Chorale Christmas Concert proved highly entertaining—to the seniors, who got to see it. Unfortunately, the underclass homerooms only got a piped-in (and garbled) version of it over the P.A.

While some of this year's assemblies were better than others, they all helped to break up the day-to-day routine of school life.

The homecoming assembly was O.K. if you were sitting near the floor.

Mr. Mark Schoenbrach delivers a comic interpretation of high school life during the best assembly of the year.

Dale Grubb's trumpet solo was really interesting for all the marching band enthusiasts in the school.

The Choral Masters was composed of eighty students under the direction of Mr. Ronald Morgan. They sang in three concerts: one in the fall, one at Christmas-time, and one in the spring. In addition, the Choral Masters participated in the annual GCC concert, which was held at Bedford. A select group of twenty students composed the Varsity Chorale. These students, all members of the Choral Masters as well, were picked for spots on the Varsity Chorale on the basis of auditions held last spring. Besides singing with the Choral Masters at their concerts, Varsity Chorale members performed at their own benefits and capped their year with a trip to New York City. The president of the Varsity Chorale this year was Dana Salem.

Powder Puff Caps Fall Activities

It's called Powder Puff football, but the senior women of the Blue and Gold teams played it with the kind of intensity you'd expect to find at a Euclid-St. Joe's game.

The macho men of the cheerleading squad attempt to pyramid their talent.

Who says girls aren't interested in football?

A reversal of roles takes place in a powder puff game: the girls play a game of flag football and the boys act out the role of cheerleaders. Besides being funny, powder puff football can be profitable. This year's senior class raised $900 because of the game.

Approximately 120 senior girls participated in this year's powder puff game, playing for either the Blue or Gold teams. Although in the past two years the powder puff game had ended in a tie, this year the Gold team won a resounding 38-6 victory.

FLEXING

Sophomore Paul Leasure, dressed in white, was instrumental in getting the Martial Arts Club organized.

Several clubs at Euclid High School exist for those students who take pleasure in flexing their muscles. The traditional ones—the Lettermens Club and the Girls Leaders Club—are more or less honorary organizations for students who are involved with one of the school's sports teams. The Martial Arts Club, however, is slightly different.

The Martial Arts Club was formed for those students interested in and willing to learn the techniques of self-defense. The students were taught respect, self-control, and self-defense. The major martial arts studied were aikido and karate. The sponsor and instructor was Mr. John Berilla, who volunteered his time on Wednesdays and Saturdays for the benefit of the club.

Club members learned relaxation techniques and self-defense methods. Instructors from other martial arts organizations came in to provide students with information on what to expect in various situations. Club officers this year were Paul Leasure, president; Mark Botirius, vice-president; Nancy McCourt, secretary; and Beth Mason, treasurer.

THE YEAR OF

The inauguration of a new President would normally be considered the top news story of the year, but the events of 1981 were anything but normal.

On the local scene, Euclid resident Dennis Eckart was elected to Congress to replace the retiring Charles Vanik, congressman of the 22nd district.

The Cleveland Browns were also winners—winners of the Central Division championship for the first time in years. The doors to the Super Bowl for them were frozen shut, however, in their playoff game against Oakland, held in an icy Cleveland Stadium where the windchill factor hovered around -30. With only minutes to go in the game, a Brian Sipe pass was intercepted in the end zone. Oakland won the game 14-12 and went on to destroy Philadelphia in the Super Bowl 27-10.

In contrast to the Browns, the only excitement caused by the Cavaliers was generated by the feuding between the new owner, Ted Stepien (a former Euclid School Board member) and the local sports writers, who questioned many of Stepien's trades.

On the national scene, 1980 was a Presidential election year in which the incumbent President, Jimmy Carter, was challenged by Republican Ronald Reagan and Independent John Anderson. Many pre-election polls showed Carter and Reagan remarkably close, with a large number of voters still undecided. A debate between Carter and Reagan held in Cleveland in late October apparently helped the voters make up their minds as Reagan went on to win a landslide victory.

In other national news, two Cleveland missionaries, Jean Donovan and Sister Dorothy Kazel (whose parents reside in Euclid) were killed in political violence in El Salvador. Within a short period of time after their murders, local and national TV and newspaper reporters began examining the United States role in El Salvador in detail. Back at home, several congressmen were convicted in the ABSCAM operation, a bribery scandal in which FBI agents, posing as representatives of rich Arabs, passed bribe money to the unsuspecting congressmen for promises of political favors.

The nation in general, and rock music fans in particular, were shocked by the murder of John Lennon, a member of The Beatles, who was fatally wounded outside his New York apartment building by a deranged fan, Mark David Chapman. Lennon's death triggered sales of his albums, and his latest album Double Fantasy and hit single "Starting Over" reached the top of the music charts immediately.

While music lovers were mourning Lennon's death, the country was mourning the sour economy, which was beset with layoffs and high inflation. The flood of imported cars entering the country had a strong effect in the Cleveland area, where many auto workers found themselves in the unemployment line rather than on the assembly line.

The top news story of the year, of course, was the release of the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran. As a show of appreciation for their 444 days of captivity, the hostages were showered with parades and gifts—ranging from free vacations to free baseball tickets for the rest of their lives—upon their return to the United States.

In addition to its involvement with the hostages, Iran was also in the news as a war flared up between it and Iraq. The Russians used the instability in the area to continue their occupation of Afghanistan. Also occupying Russia's attention were events in Poland, where a number of strikes broke out as workers demanded more freedom. While political problems threatened the Middle East and Poland, North Africa and Italy were devastated by major earthquakes.

In the world of entertainment, the hit movies of the season were The Empire Strikes Back, Friday the 13th, Star Wars, Crazy, 9 to 5, and Ordinary People. The new TV season was delayed several weeks by an actors' strike; but when the strike was settled, audiences found that they really didn't miss much as the new TV shows, like Speak Up, America and Bosom Buddies left much to be desired. The top-rated TV shows of the year were Dallas (Do you remember who shot J.R.?), 60 Minutes, The Dukes of Hazzard, and The Love Boat. As the outstanding special of the year, Shogun scored spectacularly in the TV ratings.

Besides John Lennon, notable deaths which occurred this year included movie director Alfred Hitchcock, actor Steve McQueen, French philosopher and Nobel Prize-winning author Jean-Paul Sartre, and track and field star Jesse Owens.

Dennis Eckart accepts the congratulations of outgoing Charles Vanik as he trades his job as state representative for that of congressman.

John Lennon's death shocked those older music lovers who remembered The Beatles' two concerts in Cleveland in the mid-'60's.

YELLOW RIBBONS

Above: Rather than yellow ribbons around the old oak tree, the residents of this home on Lake Shore Boulevard used a flag and a message to welcome the 52 American hostages back from 444 days of captivity in Iran.

Cleveland became less of a national joke when it was selected as the site for the only 1980 Presidential debate between Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan.

Many of the clubs at Euclid High School are service-oriented. Students participate in them because they are fun and—corny as it may seem—they make the school a better place to be for their fellow students. The Ad Club, A-V Club, and Library Aides fall into this category. Ad Club members help to sell tickets and programs for the school's sporting events. Library Aides and A-V Club members keep the library and the audio-visual equipment of the school in good working order.

While some clubs appeal to a student's sense of service, others, such as the Investment Club and the Computer Club can provide him with after-school learning experiences. Members of the Investment Club learn economics by following stock market trends. Computer Club members improve their programming technique on a 6800 microcomputer, a recently built 6809 microcomputer, and several TRS-80's.

Allen Black confirms a film reservation with the film library in the Forlyce Building. A-V Club members also helped Mr. Banford with the distribution and maintenance of A-V equipment.

Chances are that he drops the problem into the lap of the nearest angel, also known as sports aide. ## AFS Club Sponsors Three Exchange Students Euclid High School's AFS (American Field Service) Club is composed of students interested in learning about other cultures. AFS members are given the chance to do this by traveling overseas to live with a host family in a foreign country.

During the summer of 1980, two Euclid students, Kathy Drury and Beth Mabel, traveled to Turkey and Finland respectively. They met many new people and have many interesting and exciting stories to tell of their travels.

This year, Julie Samuel, an EHS junior, was fortunate enough to be chosen to go to New Zealand. She will spend several months with her sponsor family and go to school there with other young people her age.

EHS was also honored this year to have three foreign exchange students: Milton Lau of Guatemala City, Guatemala; Philippe Feldman of Dijon, France; and Fermin Guardiola-Madero of Valencia, Spain. All three students are enjoying an eleven-month visit here. They all maintain A averages in their senior honors classes and say that they are learning English very quickly since they hear it so often. They are learning about the many cultural differences between their home countries and the U.S. by visiting here.

Winter Play Provides 3 For 1 Entertainment

The Winter Play, a collection of three one-acts, was presented on January 22, 23, and 24. The first play, Family Album, concerned the children of the Featherways family, who are reunited at their old home after years of separation following the death of their father. In the beginning, they are respectful to their father's memory; however, as the evening wears on, the old house and the aged butler bring back memories; and the children finally acknowledge that their father was a cruel, unkind man. The central characters in this play were Burrows, the butler, played by John Eros; Jasper, the eldest son, played by Tim Coles; and Lavinia, the eldest daughter, played by Audrey Lonchar. Also appearing were Dana Salem, Carol Otcasek, John Kisthardt, Dawn Ehrhart, Ken Ferlito, and Sal Midolo. Jenny Jambor provided musical accompaniment.

The second play, The Will, told the story of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ross. The story is told in brief glimpses as the couple makes various wills over a forty-year period. In the beginning the love that the two have for each other is reflected in their goodness and generosity, but over the years, as Mr. Ross becomes more and more successful, Mrs. Ross becomes corrupted with the power that they hold and changes into a very snobbish person. Mr. Ross eventually realizes what has been happening her—and to himself—but he is too late to change anything. Mr. Ross was played by Mike Smith, and his wife Emily by Janet Larkins. The lawyers were played by Ken Ferlito and Bob Katcher. Also appearing were Joy Black and Dawn Ehrhart.

The final play was a series of vignettes called Breaking Up Is Hard to Do. They concerned three couples dealing with the problems of separation. The elderly couple was played by John Eros and Tina DiBacco, the middle-aged couple by Rick Pelton and Wendy Stroud, and the teen-aged couple by Sal Midolo and Lori Springer. Also appearing was Dave Hanson. The play was narrated by Mike Smith.

All those hectic play practices can give anyone prematurely gray hair! Tina DiBacco and John Eros portrayed an elderly couple facing the problem of separation in the one-act play Breaking Up Is Hard to Do.

John Eros's stoop-shouldered posture was an added touch that helped him to create the character of the old butler in Family Album.

Well, you'd be mad too if someone was sticking his tongue out at you! Audrey Lonchar reflects her anger at having to acknowledge her father's true personality in Family Album.

Don't complain! It's a wonder that it came out at all. John Eros, Wendy Stroud, and Paul Leasure should be smiling after helping the Survey survive a year of soaring printing costs and missed deadlines.

The 1980-1981 Survey staff was a combination of experience and inexperience. With junior co-editors Jeff Westover and Roberta Yuhás at the helm, the first several issues were put together with a lot of worry. As the new year broke, however, things seemed to go more smoothly. The sophomore writers turned out to be more skilled than first expected, especially Kal Cers and Mike Kucera. Mark Speck, a junior, turned out to be a superior writer who could tackle any story. Sandy Glicker, a junior associate editor, also took on the student business manager's job. Seniors Tom Tonkli and Wendy Stroud, as page editors, provided leadership to the few other seniors on the staff: Harvey Taulien, Eric Eckart, and Dawn Ehrhart. Head photographer Ray Tice, a junior, grew in skill all year as he combined his efforts with senior Brian Reno and junior Steve Clay. Artists Paul Leasure and Kathy Ray turned out interesting cartoon strips for each issue. All in all, this year's Survey got better and better as the staff grew in experience.

Eucuyo members run the school literary magazine. Through the course of the year, they collect and edit plays, stories, poems, artwork, and pictures from EHS students for use in the publication. Their perennial problem—and this year was no exception—is simply getting students to submit material to them for possible use in the magazine. To supplement their choice of material and to exercise their own artistic abilities, they also spend time writing stories and poems themselves. The Eucuyo is published in May and sold for $1.

Give Me An E:

And if you don't get those pictures, I will personally boil you in oil! Euclidian adviser Mr. Petrovic uses his typical finesse to discuss picture assignments with Brian Reno, Steve Clay, Jim Ambrose, and Audrey Lonchar.

The story of the 1981 Euclidian began in the spring of 1980 with the selection of this year's staff and the choice of the theme, Give Me an E. When the 1980 Euclidian arrived last May, it was submitted to the Columbia University Press Association for judging. It won a second-place award, and many of the suggestions for improvements have been incorporated in this year's book. Further ideas were picked up at a week-long workshop held last June at Denison University and sponsored by the Josten's American Yearbook Company. The workshop was attended by Mr. Petrovic and eight members of the staff: Jenny Jambor, Beth Franko, Amy Ogrinc, Kelly Dunlevy, Amy Reno, Mike Cotter, Mike Durbin, and Jim Brown.

In early August, the staff began its advertising campaign. Through a great effort, the staff raised $5200 in advertising—30% more than has ever been raised before, an amazing achievement when one considers that many businesses have dropped yearbook ads to cut costs. Much of the success of the advertising campaign was due to the efforts of Lisa Stupansky, who personally sold $1200 in ads. Because of the increased advertising revenue, the cost of the yearbook to students was the same as last year, $12, although the printing costs were 10% higher than last year.

As Underclass editor, the burden of meeting the first deadline in October fell most heavily upon Amy Reno. With the help of Laurie Hanlon, Hillary Hook, Lesa Galer, Beth Pritchard, and others; the first deadline was met with ease, as was the second deadline in November. The December and January deadlines proved more troublesome, however, as it was too early to submit pages covering winter sports and work on Judy Krnc's Activities section pages was slowed in November since the staff was concentrating on selling yearbooks to the student body. Beth Hook, Senior section editor, and Linda Lawrence, Faculty editor, picked up the slack; and because of their dedicated work, the deadlines were met with a minimum of delay.

The biggest headache of the year proved to be the final deadline. In order for the book to be published in May, all pages must be submitted by the middle of February. Unfortunately, this year the final deadline date was a full week before the conclusion of the winter sports' season, a fact which presented special problems for Sports editor Beth Cramer.

Although the production of a yearbook at a school the size of Euclid is the result of the efforts of many people, special mention should be made of Mark Speck and Mike Kucera, who are the authors of much of the copy in the Underclass and Activities sections; Jim Ambrose, Steve Clay, Brian Reno, and Ray Tice, who did much of the photography for the book, and Bill Mason, who composed the artwork for the cover and the divider pages.

COPING WITH THE

Brian Reno is able to apply some of the skills he has learned in his computer classes at his job at Hudson Pharmacy. He works fifteen hours a week as a pharmacist's assistant and computer operator, filling drug orders for area nursing homes and institutions.

Going to school certainly isn't cheap. A new pen here, a tablet of paper there, a new notebook for science class—all these things add up over the course of a school year. And if you have a car, where are you supposed to get the money for gas and insurance? The answer is obvious—you go to work.

The part-time job seems to be growing in popularity with students as they, like their parents, try to cope with inflation. Luckily, the numerous small businesses and fast food outlets in Euclid provide a number of opportunities for students who want to pick up a few extra bucks.

While some people would say that a part-time job has a detrimental effect on a student's schoolwork and ability to participate in activities, students who work seem to be divided in their opinions. Greg Yartz, for example, admits to being a bit tired in school the day after he works late; and Brian Reno, who ranks first in the senior class academically, says that his job might have a small effect on his schoolwork. While Doug Arbogast felt that his job left him little time for school activities, Trish Pirsil managed to involve herself in girl's volleyball and track.

Whatever the effects of a part-time job on students' schoolwork, as long as the price of paper, pens, and notebooks keeps going up, students will keep looking for ways to make ends meet.

ALPHABET

DCT? DE? OWE? COE? To an outsider, these letters might represent the alphabet soup of abbreviations standing for some obscure federal agencies. But students at Euclid High School know that they are abbreviations of various work-study programs: Diversified Cooperative Training, Distributive Education, Occupational Work Experience, and Cooperative Office Education. Under these programs, students spend half the day in classes to fulfill their requirements for graduation and half the day working in local businesses and industries to practice job skills and gain work experience.

Education For

The Vocational Machines and Vocational Automotives classes are two-year programs which allow students to acquire practical job experience while still in school. In their four-period classes, students learn the technical theory of machinery or automobiles as well as having the opportunity to apply that theory to projects using the equipment available in the classes.

Bringing Out

What really is the job of a beautician or an artist? To bring out the best in people, naturally! And it's the skills needed to do this which the Vocational Cosmetology and Vocational Art students develop in their two-year programs. Cosmetology students study under the direction of Mr. Lou Dipaolo at Euclidian Beauty College and return to the high school for their academic subjects. Vocational Art students work on commercial art skills for four periods a day under the supervision of Mr. Richard Patton.

Child Care Students Look Like

The initials H.E.R.O. stand for Home Economics Related Occupations. The Hero Club is a part of the Child Care I and II classes. Its goal is the promotion of community awareness for the need of quality child care service.

This year, the club donated money to Rainbow Babies and Children Hospital for research. The Hero Club members also planned outings to various children's homes. Social events were also planned. A class trip concluded the year for the Child Care I students. Child Care II students ended their year with an awards banquet. The students also competed in district and state rallies demonstrating the skills they learned in class.

Officers of the Child Care II class were Sue Markiewicz, president; Becky Burge, vice-president; Parsa McGraw, secretary; and Kim Antonick, treasurer. Child Care I officers were Parris Rice, president; Barb Dearden, vice-president; Marie Udovic, secretary; and Linda Callahan, treasurer.

Vocational Business Students

The Vocational Clerk-Typist and Stenography programs are two-year, four-period classes for those students wishing to learn and develop specific business skills before confronting the real world upon graduation.

But the Clerk-Typist and Stenography programs are more than just classes. They are also clubs which conduct service projects, money-raising activities, go on field trips, and participate in regional and state-wide office skills contests.

For instance, during the course of the year, these classes held a variety of popcorn, candy, and Christmas-items sales to raise money for their activities. An example of their service projects, the Clerk-Typist I class gave a Halloween party for deprived children.

All of the classes make use of field trips and outside speakers to broaden their understanding of the business world. Some of the offices visited this year by these classes included TRW, the FBI, the Eaton Corporation, IBM, and Ohio Bell.

Learning To Do Things

Right: Valinda Walker and Wanda Rembert concentrate on their classwork in Accounting I.

Vocational Accounting and Vocational Data Processing are four-period business class. They also act as clubs, and as such sponsor a number of money-raising projects to finance their activities.

This year the Accounting classes raised money through bake and candy sales. They also worked on several service projects. For example, at Halloween they made pumpkins for the Mary Mavec Home. The classes also took field trips to area business. The junior class visited the library and the downtown post office. The senior class toured the Ameritrust Headquarters, The Cleveland Clinic, Lakeland Community College, and Nela Park.

The officers of the Accounting I class were president Al Peklay, vice-president Nick Caplick, recording secretary Karen Gordon, corresponding secretary Jan Mayerhofer, treasurer Vernita Adams, and historian Angela Broxton. In the Accounting II class, Kathy Stanke served as president; Denise Santon, vice-president; Judy Mast, secretary; Jeannine Carlo, treasurer; and Lori Appleton, historian.

The Data Processing classes learn key punch, data entry methods, and the languages of the computer: BASIC and COBOL. They raised money for their activities by selling candy and Christmas gifts. They also helped run the United Way drive at school this year. Like the members of the Accounting classes, they are members of the Ohio Office Education Association.

In the Data Processing I class, Joe Minardo served as president; Dina Massaro, vice-president; Rich Cowie, secretary; and Tony Naglic, treasurer. In the Data Processing II class, Tony Zingale was president; Dave Jerinia, vice-president; and Diane Polaski, secretary.

Smoking Survey Proves Habits Die Hard

Warning: The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health.

Although this has been printed on every pack of cigarettes sold in the United States for the past fifteen years, a great number of Americans — and Euclid students — choose to ignore it.

A survey of random sophomore and junior homerooms showed that 25 percent of sophomores and 30 percent of juniors smoked. Although high school health classes do educate students about the adverse effects of smoking, apparently old habits die hard.

Taking a smoke during lunch was a privilege reserved only for seniors.

Soph Trades Jamaica's Shores For Euclid

Do you know where Vizog, India is? Then you can imagine the problems Akhilesh Ganti has with American geography.

Sophomore Akhilesh Ganti is not only new to the high school this year but also new to the United States.

Born in Vizog, India, Akhilesh has lived and traveled around the world as his father, a heart surgeon, pursued his profession. After living six years in India, Akhilesh spent two years in New Zealand and the last six years in Jamaica before arriving in Euclid.

Although Akhilesh admits that he misses the spectacular beaches of Jamaica and the Carribbean blue of the ocean, he finds the cities in the United States much cleaner than those in Jamaica. There's another benefit too: while a gallon of gasoline costs $1.20 here, it goes for $4.55 a gallon in Jamaica!

Akhilesh's favorite sports include tennis, soccer, table tennis, and cricket.

Sophomores Give EHS Straight A's

With sweaty palms and a stomach that feels like a walking address-book for Lums, a sophomore opens the door and enters the cavernous halls of Euclid High School for his first day of school. His heart begins to pound as, wandering down the halls in a hopeless search for his locker, he looks for a familiar face from his junior high. On the verge of panic, he spots a kid who sat behind him in his ninth grade, third period study hall. Although he didn't say "hi" to him all last year, he now hurries over as if he is about to greet a long-lost brother. Then, mustering all his concentration to eliminate the trembling from his voice, he asks, "So what do you think of this place?"

Aside from the usual first day filters and confusion, the sophomore class adapted itself remarkably well to life at the high school. A survey given to six sophomore homerooms found that 73% of the students responding preferred life at the high school to that of their old junior high. More importantly, 85% of the sophomores surveyed indicated that they like their teachers. The faculty would be happy to learn that even the street-wear juniors gave their teachers a positive rating by a 79-21% margin.

Studies of high schools show that students succeed best in schools in which they are happy. If this is true, the results of our survey prove that the class of 1983 and Euclid High School have two fantastic years to look forward to.

Administration Expands Attendance Rules

Is there a form in your future? . . . There will be if you're absent from school or tardy to class too many times.

A number of rules, instituted at the high school last year, were continued this year. To discourage class cutting, the two-cut rule stated that after the second class cut a student would receive an F for the grading period.

The class attendance rule, meant to penalize the chronically absent student, stated that in any grading period every unexcused absence over eight would result in the loss of one letter grade. In other words, a student would automatically fail a class if he were absent thirteen days in any grading period.

Since the administration felt that these rules had had a positive affect on student attendance, a new rule was instituted this year. Simple stated, each unexcused tardiness counts as one-third of an unexcused absence and is added to the absence total. Thus, a combination of unexcused absences and tardiness could result in the lowering of a student's grade.

Although the majority of Euclid's students have a good attendance record, some students have begun to take a strong interest in their absence totals.

Linda Lewin and Mr. Von Benken model the latest in conservative fashions.

Poll Finds 50% Of Juniors Have Licenses

Driving can present some problems. Nine percent of the juniors have already gotten a ticket.

To a high school student in the 1980's there is no better sign of adulthood than a driver's license, and in Ohio it is not that hard to obtain one. The first step is to pass the written test for a temporary license, which enables you to drive with a licensed driver in the car. After taking a driving course, lasting anywhere from two to nine weeks, you must pass a test for a permanent license. On this test, which measures street driving and maneuverability, you must score a 76% or better.

To measure the driving experience of this year's junior class, a survey was given to selected junior homerooms in September. The results showed that already 50% of the students had their permanent licenses. However, only 15% of the junior class drove to school—perhaps reflecting the high price of cars, gasoline, and the general distrust parents hold for their sixteen year old sons or daughters driving.

Every freedom present problems, and driving is no exception. Our survey found that 9% of the junior class drivers had already received a traffic ticket, and that 6% had been involved in a traffic accident—although it wasn't clear whether they were driving or a passenger in the car.

Somehow I have the feeling this isn't the boys' gym. Euclid's size gave Steve Wilson problems at first.

A recent addition to Euclid High's junior class is Steve Wilson. Before coming to Euclid, Steve attended Victor High School in Victor, New York, a suburb of Rochester. Previous to moving to Victor, he had attended Cleveland Central Catholic.

Steve finds Euclid larger and better equipped than any of his previous schools. Victor High had about 1000 students, and was small compared to Euclid. Features of Euclid High that Steve likes best include the E-room, the planetarium, and the indoor track.

Steve's favorite pastimes are football and car repair. Among his favorite classes are Vocational Electronics and World Problems. Steve looks forward to graduating with the class of 1982 from Euclid—the best high school that he's known.

September Seminar Confronts Problems Of Drug And Alcohol Abuse

A drug and alcohol abuse seminar for parents was held in the Little Theater on September 24, 1980. A panel of six people presided over the meeting. These six people were Euclid senior Char Gale, 11th grade counselor Lynn Davis, Euclid Detective James Trobenter, Euclid Municipal Court Judge Robert Niccum, Mr. Michael Buscemi—formerly with the State Department of Education, and moderator Barbara Zohn.

Much of the discussion at the seminar was technical, but there was some down-to-earth information presented. Buscemi said that there are 500,000 teenage alcoholics nationwide and another 500,000 teenagers who have problems with alcohol.

Both Buscemi and Ms. Davis felt that solutions to the problems of drug and alcohol abuse must start in the home and that communication between parents and their children is essential. Judge Niccum felt that most parents could discuss such problems with their children although real communication might be difficult with an overprotective parent and impossible with one who simply didn't care.

However, Char Gale claimed that most kids are not willing to talk with their parents about problems because, according to her, parents don't listen. She also felt that professional help is needed at the first sign of drug or alcohol abuse before something worse can occur. Char also stated, "More kids are using it (drugs), but less are using it more."

Detective Trobenter suggested that young people be educated about alcohol and drugs as early as the second or third grade rather than waiting until the sixth grade. Trobenter also claimed that marijuana and hashish are the most common street drugs.

There are several Euclid agencies that a person with alcohol or drug abuse problems can turn to: the Juvenile Court and the Center for Human Services. Euclid High School is also beginning a small counseling service of its own. At present, five faculty members act as counselors: Ms. Baraniuk, Ms. Davis, Ms. Jagger, Ms. Spiga, and Mr. Montani.

Vocational Programs Attract Juniors

There are several vocational programs that juniors and seniors can take at Euclid High School. These programs can help students prepare for a job when they graduate. In the business area, students may take Stenography, Accounting and Computing, Data Processing, and General Office-Clerical. Seniors may take Cooperative Office Education or Distributive Education. In the Home Arts Department, interested students may take Child Care. Students pursuing a career in Industrial Arts may take Vocational Machines, Vocational Electronics, or Commercial Arts. Programs taught in cooperation with other schools include Horticulture, Food Service, Communications Electronics, and Cosmetology. There are also special programs such as D.C.T. (Diversified Cooperative Training) and O.W.B. (Occupational Work Experience).

A special advantage of these programs is the in-depth training and the individual attention given to a student so he can acquire the skills and facts that are essential to him when he graduates from school and goes job-hunting.

There are approximately 475 juniors and seniors who are enrolled in vocational programs at Euclid High School. The program with the largest enrollment is Vocational Auto Mechanics, while such programs as Child Care and Vocational Office-Clerical have the smallest enrollment.

If a sophomore wishes to be in a vocational program in his junior year, he or she must have a good attendance and good grades. Two programs, Data Processing and Computer Electronics, give tests to students to see if they qualify.

Vocational Director Mr. Sawyer says that of all students taking vocational programs, 84 percent are employed in the field they have trained for, while the rest go to college and further their studies. Mr. Sawyer also reports that there are no new vocational programs planned for the future at Euclid High School.

Events In Iran Strike Close To Home For Euclid Junior

Sara Shirin Kazam recently returned to the United States after spending most of her life in Iran. Shirin was born in Cleveland—her mother is from Euclid—and moved to Iran when she was two years old. She returned to the U.S. when she was seven and stayed at Berkeley, California. By the time she was eight years old, she returned to Shiraz, Iran, for the second time. When she was twelve, she moved to Hawaii. From Hawaii she returned to Iran and finally back to her mother's home town—Euclid. The reason for much of this traveling was that her father is from Iran and is a professor of engineering at Shiraz University. Her father is currently in Iran and can't get home because of the war with Iraq.

The city she lived in in Iran is called Shiraz. The people of Shiraz were very friendly. Despite what the Americans think, Iranians like Americans. One store owner told her mom it's the governments who are fighting, not the people.

Shirin moved back to Euclid because Iran was becoming very dangerous. There was no due process of law. The government could just confiscate property. Shirin was against the Shah, but she also is against Khomeini. He is not senile, but he is old-fashioned and an idealist.

School in Iran was quite different than school in the U.S. for Shirin. She considered herself lucky because her school was the only co-ed school in Iran. She had only ten kids in her class, and the teachers switched classes, not the students. Although Shirin likes the U.S., she misses Iran and her good friends back home.

Survey Reveals Underclassmen Are Long-Time Euclid Residents

1980 was a year in which the national census was taken. And since the census not only counts us but also compiles all sorts of statistics about our habits, the Euclidian did the same with the student population.

While Americans are supposed to be moving more frequently, our statistics showed that the average sophomore has lived in Euclid for eleven years while his junior counterpart has called Euclid home for twelve years. 41 percent of sophomores and 34 percent of the juniors have lived their whole lives in Euclid.

Finally, 29 percent of the sophomores could be considered world travelers. With Euclid located on the shore of Lake Erie, it is only natural that most of these out-of-country travels were across the lake to Canada. However, six percent of the sophomores have traveled to Mexico, and four percent have already been to Europe.

Chances are, according to statistics, that junior Debbie West has lived in Euclid for twelve years.

Although school is over, Michelle McKnight finds a few minutes to spend with her friends.

Junior Class Cabinet Plans Activities For The Class Of 1982

The Junior Class is composed of 75 outgoing, spirited members of the class of 1982. From its 75 members, 15 students are selected to be in the Junior Class Cabinet. This cabinet is in charge of Junior Class activities. These 15 members meet every Thursday morning at 7:30 under the direction of Dr. Crary. During these meetings, activities for their classmates are planned. One major activity they plan is the Junior Prom. The Junior Cabinet makes all of the decisions for the Junior Prom — decisions such as time, place, band, decorations, and food. Then they report to the rest of the members to see how they like their ideas.

An event such as the Junior Prom costs money. In order to meet the cost of their dance, fund-raising is planned and conducted by Junior Class members. In a September car wash, the Junior Class raised over 70 dollars for their classmates. A Panther Power button sale also added to the class treasury. Other fund raisers included candy, pom poms, bakery, doughnuts, and flower sales.

The Junior Class is a group of students who are out to reach a goal: to make Euclid High the best it can be for their classmates. All events, activities, and fund raisers center around this goal.

A special activity at Euclid High School - Junior Class - is meant to help 11th graders solve the problems of class leadership and communication, something created by a school the size of Euclid.

Key Injuries

Although the Panther football team finished with a four and six season record—good for third place in the Greater Cleveland Conference—the season was a disappointing one. Coach Seymour said that this year was particularly frustrating because of the many injuries. Dave Manello, Steve Marinkov, and Doug Leu were among the twenty-seven players who were on the injured list during part or all of the season. These injuries made it nearly impossible to “improve in unison.”

However, there is a bright side to everything. Because of the injuries, Coach Seymour said that he was able to play many members of the team, thus enabling them to gain valuable experience. He also stated that he was optimistic about next year because of the experience the team will already have had.

Highlights JV's Season

The JV football team posted a 5-5 record under their head coach, Dale Engleking. The JV's were beset with injuries all season and had a maximum of only twenty-eight healthy players for most of their games. However, the junior Panthers were held together by a powerful defense which allowed only eighty-six points to be scored on it all year. The offense fell into a slump in the middle of the season, but managed to score 120 points.

We Finally Beat St. Joe's

Euclid's 12-3 finish was good for second place in the GCC.

The Varsity Soccer team, with an impressive crew of seniors, had their best season in years. The highlight of the season was their first victory ever against St. Joseph's. After massacring West Geauga 5-2, they finally bowed out of the state tournament when they were narrowly defeated, 2-1, in a grueling match against Gilmour. The team ended the season with an overall record of 12-3.

The team showed exceptional skill on the field, and outstanding players who contributed to the team's success included Zdenko Novkovic, Phil Pallante, John Turcinov, who was named to the 1st Team, All GCC, and Sean McCluskey, who made the 2nd Team, All GCC. Nick Spiranovich was most the Most Valuable Player in the GCC. Team awards went to Mike Durbin for Outstanding Hustle, Nick Spiranovich for Most Valuable Offense, and Phil Pallante for Most Valuable Defense. All GCC, 1st Team player, Zdenko Novkovic won the Most Valuable Player Award.

JV's Finish 5-2-2

The J.V. Soccer team had yet another great season. Starting strong and finishing even stronger, the team compiled an overall record of 5-2-2. This record was good enough for second place in the G.C.C. Coach Hamovec was impressed with the dedication and combined team effort.

A Championship Round

Why did the golf team have such a good season? "We had five guys who could play very well for a high school team," answered Coach Raicevich. "These players could shoot 40 or better."

The best meet for these hard-working men was at Mentor. Raicevich said that they beat Mentor on their own course, something they had never done before. Doug Drobnick and Jim Eder had particularly low scores at this meet.

The worst meet was against Mayfield. The team was literally torn apart on the course. Raicevich concluded, "If you have a 12-1 record in one season and you win a championship, it gives a feeling of pride and accomplishment that is tough to match."

Varsity Volleyball

The 1980 Girls' Volleyball team finished their season with a 4-12 record, which did not reflect the ability of the team. Miss Buck, who has been coaching for seven years, said, "The girls were one of the most talented and cooperative teams which I have ever coached."

The team's victories against Mayfield, Cleveland Heights, Maple and Brush were lead by the cheering of a strong bench.

The volleyball team defeated Conneaut High but lost to their rival Mentor in the tournaments.

Miss Paderewski, the Junior Varsity coach was a new face at Euclid but was not new to the sport. She played for Kent State for four years and coached for Lake Erie College before coming to Euclid. The team's 8-8 record shows Miss P.'s coaching abilities and the teamwork of the girls.

Flashes Of Brilliance;

As trite as it might sound, this year's basketball season certainly had its ups and downs. The team ended the season at .500 and mired somewhere in the middle of the GCC standings. However, among those lackluster statistics are the memories of sparkling performances, especially the two games against GCC powerhouse Mayfield. The Panthers took Mayfield in the first game by a score of 80-76, but dropped the second game—a seesaw affair played at Mayfield—by the score of 59-57.

Rick Neiman and Gary Brown served as co-captains of this year's team. Scoring punch and rebounding power were added by Deon Lanier, Alex Brown, Doug Grosel, and Mark Miklos. Bruce Benedict, Paul Atkins, Bill Mauser, Brian Matthews, and Rick Mihelich turned in fine substitute performances all season.

The JV's: A Study In Contrasts

The boys' 1980-1981 JV basketball team suffered a frustrating season. Despite the high-scoring efforts of Keith Mahovlic, Dean Pate, and Bill Brown, the JV's efforts were futile. Bad breaks, close calls, and bouts with the flu plagued the team all season.

After a dismal 0-5 start, the JV's won two in a row, which turned out to be their longest winning streak of the season. The dismal season was epitomized by a double overtime loss to Eastlake North.

Although not winners on the court, the JV's desire and determination was that of winners, making this year's season a maturing experience for them.

Season Record 13-7

Charlene DiFonzo, a first-year coach, led the girls' JV basketball team to a successful 13-7 season. The quickness of the team dominated its opponents. Sue Drienka's shooting ability was supplemented by the fast break of Sue Suponic and Patrice Ware. The experience of four returning juniors: Joan lafigliola, Donna Reidel, Tracy Halmes, and Michele McKnight, also added to the team's assests.

The girls romped through their first eight games undefeated. They posted five impressive wins over conference rivals and three victories over independents Riverside, Wickliffe and Geneva (the highlight of the season, a 60-10 blowout in which everyone saw action.

After returning from winter vacation, the girls dropped four games in a row. Rebounding—or the absence of it—was the fatal weakness. The remaining eight games saw five wins and three losses for the girls.

Season Record: 1-16

Say uncle or I'll put your head right through the mat!

What a pain in the neck!

Although a lack of depth in the various weight classes made for one of the most disastrous wrestling seasons in years, the 1980-1981 team boasted one of the finest wrestlers to ever wear a Euclid uniform. Senior co-captain Dave Budnar demolished a string of twenty opponents preparing for the challenge of the state championships. Dave's second place finish in the state tournament helped to balance out the disappointments of the season.

Slow Start; Fast Finish

The swim team had a rough start to its season, winning only one of its first five meets. After that, the team became a consistent winner. Outstanding swimmers included co-captains Eric Zebold and Jeff Jaroscak. The diving crew of Jeff Hogan and Kevin Meaney added great strength to the diving unit.

Euclid divers Jeff Hogan and Kevin Meaney showed a steady improvement all season.

Led by tri-captains Anne Cerer, Barb Starr, and Jill Mast, the Girls' Swimming and Diving Team won their first GCC championship. A near-perfect season was climaxed by successful conference, district, and state meets. The dual meet record was the best that the team has ever achieved. Included in this outstanding effort was a new pool record in the 100 yard backstroke set by Jo Ann Zele.

COPING WITH THE BABY

BUST

The 1980-1981 school year brought the beginning of a solution to the pressing problem of decreased school enrollment. The Euclid School Board, along with Dr. Husarik, concerned Euclid citizens, parents, teachers, and administrators, started to review the enrollment trends of previous years to try to predict the approximate enrollment size in the coming years. Even though it was only the first year for this group, many ideas and possible plans were constructed for reorganization in the 1980's to prepare for proper utilization of the secondary school buildings in the Euclid system.

Since future projected enrollment figures show a significant decline, Superintendent Ernest Husarik is preparing for the baby bust by reviewing the options for the Euclid school system.

Right: If you ever look for Dr. Bergem in his office, this is what you will probably find since he is usually attending meetings, sitting in on classes, or roaming around the building talking with students.

As principal of Euclid High School, Dr. Jerry Bergem leads a very hectic daily routine, yet he always can be found sometime during the day smiling in the hallway and talking with students as they are changing classes.

The class of 1981 is the first graduating class Dr. Bergem has seen through all three years of high school since he began as principal in September 1978. Many changes occurred during Dr. Bergem's time as principal. For example, this year there was a new tardy rule, inspirational assemblies, and the new gate house in the student parking lot. This year also marks the last year for the smoking area.

Dr. Bergem began with the Euclid School System in 1948 as a math and science teacher at Euclid Central. Outside of his day here at school he still finds time to pursue his hobbies - swimming, sailing, and skiing. He also said he likes music and playing Mr Fix - it by doing odd jobs around the house.

Directors and Unit Principals

The unit principals can be referred to as the middle men of Euclid High School. They try to prevent and correct discipline problems by creating a better relationship between the student, his teachers, and his parents. In addition, they oversee administrative matters—such as scheduling and recordkeeping—dealing with the students.

In commenting about this year's student body, 11th grade Unit Principal Mr. William McGuinness was impressed by the few number of serious discipline problems. He said that compared to EHS students of the past or students at other schools, this year's student body was very cooperative and friendly.

11th grade Unit Principal, Mr. McGuinness (standing) poses with English chairman, Mr. Antonini.

As 12th grade Unit Principal, if Mr. Medvick's smile won't win you over, his cannon will.

An unruffled manner and an occasional cup of coffee helped Mr. Martin survive 39 years of high school teaching.

Mr. Martin Retires After 39 Years In Education

Mr. Donald Martin, Sophomore Unit Principal, retired at Christmas time this year, closing the book on a 39 year career in education, the last 18 of which he spent at Euclid High School as a counselor and a unit principal.

Mr. Martin began his career in North Canton as a teacher and basketball coach. From there he moved to Painesville, where he coached both football and basketball. Many fine athletes passed before Mr. Martin in the 23 years he coached various sports, but the one that stood out in his memory the most was a boy from Painesville who played football for him in the late 1940's. That boy's name was Don Shula, and he later went on to become the head football coach of the Baltimore Colts and the Miami Dolphins. Mr. Martin ended his coaching career here at Euclid leading the girls' varsity basketball team.

Mr. Martin came to Euclid as a counselor 18 years ago, and after spending two decades here, is convinced that EHS has one of the finest staffs of any school. Although the decision to retire was a difficult one to make, Mr. Martin admitted that he is looking forward to spending time with his family and traveling. Mr. Martin was replaced by Mr. Robert Lombardo, former English department chairman at Central Junior High.

Peer Counseling Program Started This Year

The purpose of the Peer Counseling Program is to allow students the opportunity to talk with other students about their problems. "Some of them feel more comfortable talking to kids their own age. They feel less guilty. They think adults judge them," commented Mrs. Lynn Davis, 11th grade counselor and sponsor of the program. She also stated that many students will learn to trust their counselors more after this experience.

The students involved in the program are primarily the organizers of the program as well. They have worked with the Teen Institute, an organization that promotes the whole aspect of drug and alcohol information. Mrs. Davis described herself as just an "organizer" in the Peer Counseling Program since the student volunteers involved do most of the selecting and interviewing.

Among the positive effects of the program is the fact that 92 students signed up to work in Peer Counseling. Mrs. Davis considered this a very favorable interest level. Another positive sign, according to Mrs. Davis, is the fact that more and more students seem to be confiding in each other. While the student-peer counselors do not give specific advice, they do give information, listen, and recommend to students that they continue the discussion of a particular problem with their counselor when necessary.

English Scores Buck National Trend

The English Department, the largest department at Euclid High, saw a few changes this year. A new, nine-week course, American Short Story, was added to the elective program. In addition, a new textbook was purchased for use in American Literature classes.

Department chairman Justin Antonini was happy with the results of Euclid students' scores on two national tests. On the verbal section of the S.A.T., taken by the class of 1980 during their senior year, Euclid students' scores average 59 points higher than the national average and 28 points higher than the Ohio average. In addition, the results of the California Reading Test, given to all EHS students in September, showed that sophomores, juniors, and seniors were reading more than one grade level above the national average. Mr. Antonini said that these scores certainly indicated that Euclid students had sufficient reading skills. On the other hand, he felt that there was room for improvement in students' writing skills.

One student who presently has outstanding writing skills, however, is senior Megan McLaughlin. Megan was one of only 800 students nationwide to win a National Council of Teachers of English Award in an essay competition. Megan wrote her prize-winning essay as a junior for Mr. Henderson.

Tim D'Anna and Mike Whelan provide moral support as Steve Knack and Harry Yanchar apply some subtle pressure to Mrs. Cowan before she grades their essays in her College Composition class.

Provide Students In Social Studies

In the Social Studies Department, there were no new courses offered this year. However, several classes were taken on field trips; Humanities and Non-Western Studies classes visited the Art Museum. American Government classes visited several places, depending on the teacher. Crime and Prisons visited the Justice Center and a police station, and Death and Dying visited a funeral home, a cemetery, and a crematorium.

This year, in the Phase American Studies program, several courses were dropped due to lack of interest. However, four classes survived. They are Crime and Prisons, Death and Dying, Marriage and the Family, and Contemporary America. These courses are taught during the second semester of the senior year. The advantage of this program is that students can study these subjects with some degree of depth. In addition, students are exposed to the style and methods of a different teacher.

When asked if the average student of today was as interested in government as the average student of ten years ago, Mr. Hoffert, the department chairman said no because he felt that the average student of today is more cynical because American society today, in general, is more cynical.

Addition, subtraction, cosines, and angles; these are just a few of the things that math students at Euclid High School work with and sweat over each day. There are math courses offered for every need and type of student. These range from remedial math courses in basic math skills to algebra, geometry, and calculus. Euclid even has courses in computer math and computer science for those wishing to follow these fields of study.

This year Mrs. Miskinis joined the math department staff of the high school. Although no new textbooks were put into use, the 70% of the Euclid student body which is enrolled in a math course were doing their best to wear out the old ones.

Mr. Carl Clements, math department chairman, believes that most of the students graduating from Euclid have the necessary basic math skills. Therefore, he thinks that minimum competency tests are not really needed; tests and daily work point out weaknesses that are reviewed and discussed by the class teacher.

Mr. Clements believes that calculators can be a valuable tool to the student, and if used properly, can enhance the educational process. To use a calculator, one must first have knowledge of the problem to be solved so that the calculator can be used most efficiently.

Science Offers Something For All

Although there are no new additions to the teaching staff or curriculum of the Science Department, there are special programs which students don't know about. The Phase Science program is for those students who are not particularly interested in science but need a science credit in order to graduate. The Phase Science program has classes in Backpacking Biology, Environment, and Greenhouse.

Euclid's Advanced Placement Program in science has been called the finest in the state, and one of the finest in the country. This program allows students to complete their final year in high school and also earn credits toward their first year of college. Students from Euclid compete well with other areas, and the results are outstanding.

Field trips are offered in Biology II and Backpacking classes. Biology II classes attend a lecture series at Huron Road and Euclid General Hospitals. Backpacking classes go on many walks, and outstanding Backpacking students attend a three-day trip to Pennsylvania.

The Industrial Arts department, one of the strongest in the school, made no changes in personnel this year. However, Mr. Vollman, department chairman last year, left after 42 years of teaching and was replaced by Mr. Galicki. There were no new courses offered this year and no new equipment added in shop classes, although Mr. Galicki is hoping to have new equipment in the machine shop and in the graphic arts classes.

When asked how many students took industrial arts courses, Mr. Galicki stated that a definite count could not be made at the time of this interview. Furthermore, the cost of materials in shop classes doesn't really pose a problem to industrial arts students because the cost depends on the project.

Business Adds Four New Teachers

In the business department, the biggest faculty change in a long time happened this year. Four new teachers joined the staff. They are Mrs. Klein, who teaches the Junior Clerk-Typist program; Mrs. Rash, who teaches the Senior Vocational Stenography program; Mrs. Wandersleben, who teaches Senior Business Math and Typing; and Mrs. Zimmerman, who teaches Senior Data Processing. There is also a new department chairman, Mr. Manburg.

This summer, three teachers took courses that are related to the courses that they teach. In addition, some teachers went to work in business and industry to learn about business skills.

This year, the typewriting classes received new typewriters. Another change that may occur at present time is the fact that the Data Processing classes may use the HB 3000 computer in the other computer room.

All vocational business courses bring in professionals to talk about courses and job opportunities. Most of the typing classes do this as well. Many classes go on field trips to learn more about business and industry.

Mr. Manburg says that 850 students - or 40% of all students - are enrolled in vocational programs and many are enrolled in more than one program. He also states that there are statistics on job placement for business students after graduation, which show that they have a greater chance of getting a job than students without business skills.

Above: Up-to-date equipment and plenty of paperwork prepare business students for the real world of work.

Through the Music Department, many students are allowed to develop and show their vocal and instrumental talents. This year Euclid held a Solo and Ensemble contest which involved hundreds of students from around the Cleveland area. Mr. Sydow is the system-wide music coordinator and also the band director at EHS. Mr. Hutson takes care of the orchestra while Mr. Morgan is responsible for the choirs and the Varsity Chorale.

Foreign Languages: Smaller But Better

The sounds of far off lands are heard daily in Euclid High's foreign language classes. The students who take these courses not only learn a little about a foreign language and culture but also about our own language as well.

Mrs. Baumeister, the head of the Foreign Language Department at EHS, said the department has declined in enrollment since colleges have discontinued their foreign language requirements and students do not seem to have the patience to learn a second language anymore.

This year, a group of EHS students, enrolled in German classes, traveled to Europe where they spent a week touring Germany, Austria, and Switzerland. Some of the cities they stopped at were Innsbruck, Salzburg, Munich, and Zurich.

Library

LIBRARY STAFF: Margaret Lucas, Kathleen Marsh, Mary Jane Haverlock, and Margaret Torzewski.

Tired of study hall? Then come to the library! The library has become an alternative to study halls for many students. Its 30,000 volumes and numerous magazines can occupy any student's spare time or provide useful information for a history report.

Besides being a resource for information, the library has become an entertainment center. During various periods during the day, a movie would be shown. These films ranged from comedy to serious drama and were well-received by the student body.

Students practice first aid skills learned in their health class

Physical Education students have their choice of a multitude of subjects to fulfill their physical education requirements. These courses include archery, badminton, basketball, canoeing, dancing, touch football, golf, ice skating, jogging, lifesaving, swimming, orienteering, physical fitness, soccer, softball, tennis, track and field, volleyball, weight training, and yoga. Handball, which was offered last year, was dropped this year because of the number of accidents which occurred.

This year, the volleyball classes received new equipment. In addition, the weight room received a new weight machine. Physical Education department chairman Arlene Carter commented that she hopes to add more weight training equipment in the future.

Special Education

SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHERS: David Saywell, Barbara Gates, Wilma Carroll, Joyce Haffer, William Attamante.

Home Arts

The Home Arts department offers general courses in clothing, cooking, and family living; and a two-year vocational course in child care. In addition to teaching students how to fry an egg and repair a ripped pair of blue jeans, home arts classes study nutrition, menu planning, budget management, and fashion design.

Treasurer

The job of school treasurer is quite a hectic one, but Mrs. Barry has a firm grasp on the situation. As treasurer, she is in charge of the collection of student fees at the beginning of the year. Throughout the year, she handles all of the accounts for the many different clubs and activities at Euclid High School.

Serving

It takes a lot more to keep a modern high school going than just a principal, a couple of teachers, and a student or two. Serving behind the scenes is an army of support personnel: nurses, secretaries, cafeteria workers, custodial and maintenance men. Euclid High School is no exception to this rule. The cafeteria, under the direction of dietitian Rebecca Burger—new to EHS this year—served thousands of meals efficiently each month. The school's secretaries coped effectively with the mountain of forms needed to keep a two-thousand student school running smoothly. And the presence of the paraprofessionals in the halls during the school day was enough to insure that no students got lost while walking to their 5th period class.

Right: Your hall pass or your life! Some students complained that the paraprofessionals could use a few lessons at the Amy Vanderbilt School of Charm, especially those students who were caught trying to smoke a quick cigarette in the bathrooms between classes.

A Smorgasbord Of Favorites

For the class of '81, football was a clear winner as the favorite sport, followed by baseball and basketball respectively. There was no real unanimous favorite for a band. Instead, there was a long list of various ones. The list included such names as Pink Floyd, Genesis, Air Supply, the Beatles, Michael Stanley, Bruce Springsteen, The Who, Led Zeppelin, the Rolling Stones, AC-DC, and others. Favorite TV shows also varied. M.A.S.H. was on top, though, along with Dallas. Other favorite shows were cartoons such as Pink Panther and Popeye, soap operas like General Hospital and One Life to Live, news magazine programs like 60 Minutes and 20/20, and family hour shows like Eight Is Enough, The Dukes of Hazzard, and Love Boat. Clint Eastwood was the overwhelming choice as favorite actor. Votes for favorite actress, however, varied from Bo Derek to Miss Piggy, with no one actress dominating the voting.

A Class In 'Quest' Of Answers

The Quest class, headed by Mrs. Jagger, is a program to help students to learn to cope with personal problems. Included in this class are such areas of study as self-concept, feelings, attitudes, friends, family, marriage, parenting, money, careers, and philosophy. This is an elective course taught for half a year with a limit of 20 students per class, and it is for seniors only. To enter this course, students had to apply to their counselors. The counselors, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Jagger, the teacher of the Quest class, then looked over their records and applications for students who were genuinely interested in the course, not those who wanted an easy credit.

Quest class members had to fill out an application and submit to an interview before being selected for the class.

Seniors Prove To Be A Spirited Bunch

Although school is primarily a place for study, it is also a place for enrichment in other areas. Extracurricular activities, such as sports and clubs, give a school that little extra which makes it a happier and more lively place to be. Through involvement in these activities, school spirit and pride are generated. Signs of this involvement range from the wearing of a jacket with the school's name on it to attending school functions. To check on the spirit of the class of 1981, several senior homerooms were asked questions relating to these areas.

The longer an individual attends schools in a certain area, the higher the chances that he will exhibit school spirit. Our poll found that 63% of EHS seniors had attended Euclid Public Schools from kindergarten through the 12th grade. Other questions related directly to school spirit were also asked. For example, 49% of the seniors questioned said that they owned a varsity coat or Euclid jacket. 46% had attended at least one dance at EHS. 55% said that they generally went to school sporting events.

From the above statistics, one can only conclude that the class of '81 was a spirited bunch.

Seniors Express Opinions On National Issues

The 1980-81 school year will be remembered by Euclid High School seniors for various reasons. Some will remember the parties; some will remember the teachers, homework, and tests; some will remember the nights at McDonalds after a sporting event, and some will want to remember nothing. But most seniors will remember that 1980 was an election year and beginning of a new decade in which many controversial issues were faced and decided. These issues ranged from the debate over the Equal Rights Amendment, to the revival of the military draft, to the possibility of gasoline rationing. To get the opinions of EHS seniors about these subjects, a survey was given to several senior homerooms at the beginning of the school year.

Although only a few seniors could or actually did vote in the 1980 Presidential election, most of them were probably unhappy with the results, based on the answers of seniors surveyed before election day. When asked to indicate for whom they would vote for President, only 11% answered Ronald Reagan, who won the actual election by a landslide. Interestingly, 45% said that they would vote for neither Reagan, Carter, or Anderson, mirroring the general apathy of the American public for the candidates in the 1980 election.

On the issues of the Equal Rights Amendment and gasoline rationing, seniors were unified in their opinions. 79% voted against the idea of the government regulating gasoline consumption. 73% were in favor of passing the Equal Rights Amendment.

Seniors has some interesting opinions on an issue that was, perhaps, closest to their hearts—the military draft of 19 year olds. Only 35% were in favor of such a policy. However, if a draft law were passed, 60% of the seniors felt that women should also be eligible for it.

Since many states already require high school students to pass a competency test of basic skill before they can receive their high school diplomas, we asked EHS seniors if Ohio should adopt such a test. Surprisingly, 58% felt that a competency test should be required.

These were the opinions of some of the class of 1981. Now, they will go on to join the rest of the voting public, and only time will tell the outcome of these issues.

Seniors Polled On Future Plans

A poll given to several senior home-rooms revealed some interesting facts about the future plans of the class of 1981.

For example, 68% of those polled planned to go on to some form of higher education, 25% intended to go to work full-time upon graduation, and 7% intended to join the service.

Concerning the question of marriage, 94% said that they plan to marry sometime in the future. According to the survey, the most popular time to marry is between the ages of 22-25, with 26-30 age bracket placing second, and the 18-21 age bracket coming in a distant third.

The final question asked concerning marriage dealt with the future marriage partner. Only 14% of those polled answered that they did expect to marry their high school sweetheart in the future.

Thus, the average EHS senior plans to go to college, marry in his mid-twenties, but marry someone other than his present girlfriend!

Senior Plays Army For Real

Military service is one career decision that John Glicken won't have to make after graduation.

For most high school seniors, military service is only a vague possibility to be considered if college or a full-time job does not work out. But for one EHS senior, John Glicken, the military is a part of daily life since he is a member of the active Army Reserve.

Suffering from a chronic problem of students everywhere—boredom—John dropped out of school in his junior year. He signed up in the Army Reserve and began a six month term of active service in March 1979. John completed basic training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, and went to Fort Lee, Virginia, for advanced training. John said that the uncertainty of the first few days in boot camp was the low point of the experience, closely followed by chemical warfare training. The most enjoyable part of basic training for John was the firing range. Like all new recruits, he was taught to operate and fire the standard model rifle, machine gun, grenade launcher, and hand-held, anti-tank weapon. But if you think that John's training has turned him into a fire-breathing warmonger, he admits that the night firepower display put on for recruits at the end of their training gave him a new appreciation of the phrase: War is hell.

As a member of the active Reserve, John must attend meetings one weekend per month and a two-week summer camp each year. He also must go to Camp Perry, Ohio, each year for weapons qualification. For all this, John, who is a corporal in the 428th Reserve Unit located in Warrensville Heights, earns $80 per month.

Finally, John's army experience showed him the importance of a high school diploma since he found it difficult to advance—even in the army—without one. Since he has returned to school, John—a proud member of the class of 1981—has maintained a B average.

Kathy, get serious!

DONALD WOLFF

Each graduating class has its own particular set of characteristics which make it different from those classes before it. One characteristic is the entertainment that the class as a whole enjoys. The following is a sizing-up of the class of '81 on entertainment.

80% of the class of '81 attended a movie theater between one and three times a month. 80% of the class also had been to a rock concert at some time.

With entertainment comes food—most of the time fast food. The most popular fast food was pizza, and the most popular place to eat pizza was Armao's. Other favorite places included Carmella's and the Back Alley.

For socializing after a game, McDonalds was the unanimous favorite. Other places mentioned were going to someone's house for a party. Armao's, and Bob's Big Boy. If there were no game or movie to go to, the most popular activities included watching TV, listening to the stereo, or talking on the phone.

To get to such places of entertainment as football games, concerts, and restaurants meant that transportation was needed. Obviously, most seniors drive to such events, and 35% of them drive their own cars.

Euclid Known Around The World

How did you spend last summer's vacation? Kathy Drury and Beth Mabel spend theirs in Europe as AFS exchange students.

Euclid High School's influence is felt all over the world. This past summer, two EHS seniors visited foreign lands. Beth Mabel went to Finland and Kathy Drury visited Turkey as representatives of the AFS International Intercultural Programs. Kathy and Beth went through several interviews and a screening process to be chosen. Both girls spent ten weeks in their respective countries.

Beth stayed with a family in Mikkeli, Finland. She spent much of the time at her host family's two cottages. Beth found that America was popular culturally, but not politically. American jeans were especially popular, with Levi's selling for $40-$50 American dollars a pair. During her stay, Beth saw many Punk Rockers and New Waves, but the most predominant fad was the '50's—greased-back hair on boys and poodle skirts on girls.

Kathy lived in the small city of Ordu in northeastern Turkey with a family of six that spoke English fluently. While in Turkey, Kathy visited many mosques, bazaars, and museums. She found Turkey's largest cities, Istanbul and Ankara, to be very modern. Turkish teens enjoyed many of the same things American teens do: movies, sports (especially soccer), and music (particularly disco).

Both Kathy and Beth enjoyed their trips and said that they hoped to go back for return visits sometime in the future.

GOTCHA!

Hollywood only had three stooges. Euclid has eight!

There's something about lunch period that just makes us want to dance.

We always thought Leu had a screw missing.

And now for Jane Shunk's solo attempt at a balloon crossing of Lake Erie.

O.K., Dale, Halloween's over. You can take off your mask now.

Oops!!

Dr. Bergem! Don't sneak up on me like that!

Yum!

What? Me worry?

We're practicing to be twins.

It took me twelve years of school to learn this.

The rawhide bone keeps our teeth nice and bright.

Hi there!

Chief cook and bottlewasher, Dr. Bergem joins in the Halloween fun.

“If I don’t go, I don’t get”

In the South was an old man with a rowboat who ferried passengers across a mile-wide river for ten cents.

Asked, “How many times a day do you do this?” he said, “As many times as I can because the more I go, the more I get. And if I don’t go, I don’t get.”

That’s all you need to know—all there is to know—about business, economics, prosperity—and self-respect.

Endnote: The 1981 Euclidian grew out of brainstorming by the Euclidian staff, suggestions for areas of improvement from an evaluation of the 1980 book, and ideas presented at a summer workshop attended by several staff members. In some ways the book is radically different from past Euclid yearbooks. We hope that the student body finds it both an accurate and entertaining reflection of the 1980-1981 school year.

Specifics: 1200 copies of the 1981 Euclidian were printed by the Josten's/American Yearbook Company. It is printed on Gloss 191 paper and contains eight pages of full color and eight pages of spot color. The full color cover was original artwork designed by Bill Mason.
